LOCK DOWN PURSUITS

We had a trip on Thursday to Hampton Court Tulip Festival. We drove up to Hampton Court, which was straight forward and took about 45 minutes and parked in Bushy Park which is free all day and had a coffee shop and plenty of table outside. The walk from the car park past the herds of deer was a very pleasant start to our visit and only takes about 15mins at most.

You can park at Hampton Court Palace but this will cost you £1.60 an hour.

We had booked tickets online and went straight in on arrival, no queueing, very quick. The Palace itself is not open but the route to the gardens takes you through the various court yards which gives you a feel for the place.

The planting is spread out but the mashed ranks of Tulips are magnificent. You can walk round the formal garden avenues, walled gardens, down to the river and into the wilderness area, which is where we sat on a sunny bench and eat our packed lunch. They do have a café open with seating outside and a few mobile coffee shops. Well worth a visit if you can make it.
